

Acorn Woodpecker Melanerpes formicivorus

Atlas 1

Atlas 2

Comparison of Atlas Results

The Acorn Woodpecker continues to be an expected breeding species primarily along the American and Cosumnes river corridors and in oak woodland areas in the eastern portion of the county.

Breeding Bird Survey Trend (1966–2019)

California	Rangewide ¹
No Data	No Data

¹North America; Source: Sauer et al. 2020

Breeding Habitat
Oak woodland

Nest Type
Cavity in tree, communal nester

16 March 2017

Block K-3

Desperately trying to fend off the starlings from the best nest cavities in the old cottonwood trees, in years past they haven't been successful.